Lincoln has Ky. high school teacher of the year

Stevens

By Ben Kleppinger

FRANKFORT — One of Lincoln County's own is one of Kentucky's best teachers.

Joanna Stevens, a math teacher at Lincoln County High School, was named the 2013 High School Teacher of the Year last week.

"It was a complete surprise," said Stevens, who thought she would be eliminated from contention for the statewide award because she has only three years of experience in the classroom. "When they started reading the bio ... that's when I knew."

Gov. Steve Beshear and Kentucky Department of Education Commissioner Terry Holliday were on hand for the awards ceremony last week where Stevens and two other teachers were picked as the cream of the Bluegrass state's crop.

Fayette County teacher Melanie Trowel was named Middle School Teacher of the Year; Murray Elementary School teacher Holly Bloodworth was named Elementary School Teacher of the Year and the overall 2013 Teacher of the Year.

Lincoln County High School Principal Tim Godbey said he has seen Stevens in action in the classroom and the award is "well-deserved."

"For a teacher with three years of experience under her belt, she certainly performs on a daily basis as one with many more years of experience," he said. "She's a phenomenal teacher. What sets her apart is for her, it's not just about covering the content; it's not about 'Well, I taught it.' For her, it's about the kids learning the material."

Stevens is teaching at the same high school she graduated from in 2005, and she works with many teachers who taught her back then.

Stevens said when she was a little girl, she had wanted to be a teacher like her mom. Then, in high school, she began tutoring other students and rediscovered that little girl's desire.

"That kind of revived my aspiration to be a teacher," she said.

Stevens went to the University of Kentucky and took a job teaching at

Dive team pulls truck from Cedar Creek Lake

CRAB ORCHARD — Lincoln County's dive team was activated Friday to help pull a fully submerged pickup truck from Cedar Creek Lake.

A 1998 Ford Ranger belonging to Wesley Goss of Hustonville slipped out of gear at Dock No. 2 while Goss was launching a boat and the truck rolled into the lake, according to Lincoln County Emergency Management Director Don Gilliam.

The vehicle was completely submerged when Deputy Emergency Management Director Jeremy Blansett arrived on the scene.

The dive team was activated at about 12:30 p.m. Rescue divers Doug Dowell and Jason Kilby dove to the truck, which was about 25-30 feet out from shore in water about 10 feet deep, and secured

Auctioneers visit Stanford, compete for shot at world championship

STANFORD — Words and money were flying fast and clear Monday at Stanford's stockyards.

Blue Grass South Livestock Market played host to 24 professional auctioneers, all vying for 10 chances to compete at the Livestock Marketing Association's world auctioneering championship in June.

This was the first time the local stockyards, which opened for business in 2007, hosted a regional qualifying event for the competition, said Jim Akers, Blue Grass South's chief operating officer.

"We're obviously very involved in the trade organization (LMA) and ever since this facility has been built, they've wanted us to host," Akers said.

Each of the competing auctioneers had to perform eight sales live on the stockyards auction floor. A panel of five judges from around the country graded each competitor on "clarity of chant," ability to spot bids, control of the flow of sales and cattle, and other, less directly tangible qualities, like whether the judges would hire the auctioneer to work for them, Akers said.

Each competitor was also interviewed by a committee that attempted to gauge the auctioneer's knowledge of livestock markets and regulations.

"They know what's going on in the business; they're not just sitting up there selling cattle," Akers said. "They're good in their own right, or they wouldn't be here. And there are some that are extremely talented."

Dishwasher fire causes evacuation of middle school

STANFORD — More than 500 students, teachers and staff were evacuated from Lincoln County Middle School shortly after 1 p.m. Oct. 16 after a dishwasher caught on fire and filled the building with smoke.

Approximately 457 students were taken to the high-school gymnasium until buses picked them up at the end of the school day.

Lincoln County Superintendent Karen Hatter said the middle school resumed its normal schedule Thursday, Oct. 17, but students were eating off paper plates due to the malfunctioning dishwasher.

Stanford Fire Chief Scott Maples said there were no injuries and firefighters were able to extinguish the fire inside a malfunctioning

Schools smart to deemphasize Halloween

Principal Orlando Taylor believed he was doing the right thing last week when he sent a letter home announcing to parents that Halloween celebrations will be banned this year at Inglewood Elementary School.

But Taylor underestimated how many parents in Towamencin Township, Pennsylvania are emotionally attached to the annual parties and parades featuring goblins, witches and ghosts. Outraged parents denounced the ban, calling it everything from ridiculous to un-American.

After the media got wind of the story, Taylor was transformed overnight from respectable school principal into the Grinch who stole Halloween.

Higher-ups in the school district scrambled to quell the controversy, announcing that Taylor had misstated the policy. It turns out that teachers are allowed to have Halloween parties, but school-wide Halloween events such as costume parades must be held before or after school.

Although the “Halloween banned” story turned out to be a bust, the media wouldn’t have to look hard to find many other districts that are moving away from Halloween-themed activities during the school day and either moving them to non-school hours or replacing them with “harvest festivals” without Halloween paraphernalia.

This trend to de-emphasize Halloween in elementary schools isn’t driven by fear of First Amendment lawsuits — or, at least, it shouldn’t be.

True, some images and symbols associated with “trick or treat” can be traced to ancient pagan and other religious practices. But Halloween in America has been so thoroughly secularized that no court in the land is likely to view school Halloween parties as an establishment of religion.

What’s actually pushing public schools to re-think Halloween is the recognition that growing numbers of Christian, Muslim and other religious parents are opting their kids out of Halloween celebrations at school. A judge may not see Halloween as “religious,” but many parents see activities involving images of witches, demons and ghosts as offensive to their faith.

Non-religious objections to

INSIDE THE FIRST AMENDMENT

Charles C. Haynes

Halloween are also gaining traction in some school districts. Many educators want to reclaim time lost to Halloween activities during the school day. Others worry that school parades and parties leave out poor families who can’t afford the increasingly elaborate costumes.

None of these objections matter much to Halloween enthusiasts, as the brouhaha in Pennsylvania illustrates. Their basic message seems to be “don’t spoil the fun for my kid.”

But when Halloween-themed lessons and activities are ubiquitous in classrooms for weeks at a time — which is the case in many elementary schools — it isn’t much fun for parents who are trying to avoid Halloween. Kids assigned to color the witches green, sing spooky songs and read about haunted houses can’t opt out without opting out of school for much of October.

Eliminating Halloween altogether, as Principal Taylor discovered, is too unpopular, unrealistic and counter-cultural to make sense for most school districts. But toning it down — as Taylor’s district is apparently trying to do — is a good idea. Pushing costume parades to after school hours, for example, makes them voluntary for families who want to participate.

If Halloween lessons and activities disappeared tomorrow from the October curriculum, little of educational value would be lost. On the contrary, less Halloween could mean more time to teach something that really matters.

Even better, dialing back Halloween during the school day would send a message of respect for the beliefs and values of many religious parents.

Yes, Halloween as currently celebrated in elementary school classrooms is constitutional. But just because it’s legal doesn’t make it right.

Pro bono work from attorneys more important than ever in Ky.

By Roger Crittenden

Ret. Circuit Judge

Imagine facing serious, life-changing legal issues such as bankruptcy, foreclosure, domestic violence and wrongful eviction and not being able to afford an attorney.

That’s the reality for thousands of low-income Kentuckians

As we celebrate National Pro Bono Week from Oct. 20-26, the Kentucky Access to Justice Commission is highlighting widespread demand for civil legal aid in Kentucky and recognizing attorneys who provide free legal counsel to those who need it most.

These acts of pro bono service — for the “public good” — are more important than ever as Kentucky’s four legal aid programs struggle to meet the growing call for legal assistance.

As Chief Justice John Minton mentioned during his recent State of the Judiciary address, the statewide legal aid programs have lost $3 million since 2007 due to a decrease in state and federal funding, filing fees and grants. That’s one-quarter of their budgets. The results are 16 fewer attorneys and five fewer offices at a time when the number of low-income Kentuckians increased by 27 percent. In spite of these financial setbacks, legal aid managed to help nearly 68,000 low-income people last year. Unfortunately, 55 percent of eligible applicants were denied legal services because there weren’t enough resources.

Although attorneys in Kentucky are not required to do pro bono work, they are stepping up to fill the gap. From 2007 to 2012, the number of attorneys donating legal services increased 47 percent and the number of hours donated went up 28 percent.

That’s a move in the right direction and good news to those working to provide better access to legal services. In 2010, the Supreme Court of Kentucky formed the KAJC to expand access to civil legal aid to low-income Kentuckians. The Kentucky Bar Association and the Kentucky Volunteer Lawyer Program are also committed to that goal.

We’re taking a new approach to determine what we can offer, even in a limited capacity, for those turned away from more comprehensive legal assistance.

One example is online services. Kentucky’s self-help website, www.kyjustice.org, is designed for those who cannot afford an attorney and provides legal forms and information on a wide range of civil legal matters. More legal forms can be found on the Kentucky Court of Justice website at www.courts.ky.gov.

The KAJC has helped increase the informational materials available to the public. Individuals will soon be able to obtain copies of the new KAJC booklet titled “Your Day in Court,” a guide for self-represented litigants, at circuit court clerks’ offices across the state. The KAJC has also provided posters that list the legal guidance circuit court clerks can and cannot provide.

We’re also reaching across government agency lines to make sure this information is being distributed outside of the courthouses. This year the KAJC teamed up with the Kentucky Department for Libraries and Archives to offer a series of trainings to public librarians statewide on how to help individuals access and use legal resources. The KAJC has also distributed thousands of bookmarks listing legal resources for public libraries to make available to patrons.

The KAJC continues to find new ways to help attorneys get involved. For example, some civil legal aid programs offer Ask-A-Lawyer programs, legal clinics in some areas, referrals to private attorneys who donate legal services and educational programs on various legal matters.

And finally, the KAJC has worked with the Supreme Court to make a rule change that allows corporate attorneys with a limited license in Kentucky to donate legal services to low-income individuals through a legal aid program.

We’re serving a lot of people but many more still need our support. A well-known quote by Mother Teresa says, “If you can’t feed a hundred people, feed just one.” I commend the attorneys who make a difference by volunteering their services to people in need. I encourage other attorneys to begin answering the call to pro bono service by helping just one. You’ll be glad you did.

Circuit Judge Roger Crittenden (ret.) is chair of the Kentucky Access to Justice Commission.

Fort Logan Hospital earns ACR Accreditation

Ephraim McDowell Fort Logan Hospital has been awarded a three-year term of accreditation in mammography as the result of a recent survey by the American College of Radiology (ACR) for its new digital mammography unit. Mammography is a specific type of imaging test that uses a low-dose x-ray system to examine breasts. A mammography exam, called a mammo-gram, is used to aid in the early detection and diagnosis of breast diseases in women.

The ACR gold seal of accreditation represents the highest level of image quality and patient safety. It is awarded only to facilities meeting ACR Practice Guidelines and Technical Standards after a peer-review evaluation by board-certified physicians and medical physicists who are experts in the field. Image quality, personnel qualifications, adequacy of facility equipment, quality control procedures, and quality assurance programs are assessed. The findings are reported to the ACR Committee on Accreditation, which subsequently provides the practice with a comprehensive report they can use for continuous practice improvement.

The ACR is a national professional organization serving more than 36,000 diagnostic/interventional radiologists, radiation oncologists, nuclear medicine physicians, and medical physicists with programs focusing on the practice of medical imaging and radiation oncology and the delivery of comprehensive health care services.

Stuart Powell fundraiser to benefit Bluegrass Community Action

Stuart Powell is – once again – bringing Lincoln’s Driven to Give program to Central Kentucky in an effort to raise up to $6,000 for Bluegrass Community Action.

For every person who takes the wheel and test-drives a new Lincoln vehicle at Stuart Powell Ford-Lincoln on Saturday, Oct. 26 between 9 a.m. and 4 p.m., Stuart Powell and Lincoln will donate $20 to Bluegrass Community Action – up to $6,000 if they get 300 test-drives in those 7 hours.

“Whether it be our local airport, the Salvation Army, or the Danville Rotary Club, Mr. Powell has made it a priority for over 60 years to give back to the area in which our customers and employees live”, said Robert Cunningham, Community Manager at Stuart Powell Ford-Lincoln-Mazda.

“So, as a result, this instinct of giving is an important part of our business philosophy, and matches up perfectly with the Driven to Give, Drive 4 UR Community and Drive 4 UR School initiatives.

We thoroughly enjoy supporting school, community and non-profit groups! Plus, these test-drives also offers individuals the opportunity to drive a new vehicle – a luxurious Lincoln vehicle in this case – and see the remarkable engineering and technology that is driving both Ford and Lincoln to lead the industry in quality, safety and technology,” said Cunningham.

The event, which will be held from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m., will feature vehicles from the reimagined 2013 Lincoln lineup. Bluegrass Community Action volunteers will assist test-drivers in this zero-pressure event with registration; test-drive ride-alongs; and providing each test-driver with a thank-you gift.

Dealership sales staff will not be part of the event, but will be available, as requested by test-drivers, to provide additional information about each test-drive vehicle.

An encouraging word Attitude is important

By Howard Coop

As I entered the grocery store, the one to which I usually go at least once a week, I saw an employee I had not seen before. The young man, with a cart loaded with boxes, was working hard at his task of restocking an almost empty shelf. When I passed where the young man worked, I casually greeted him with: “How are you?” He immediately stopped what he was doing, looked me straight in the eye, and with a broad smile on his face, said enthusiastically, “Wonderful!”

I was more than a little surprised by the unusual response of the hard working young man to that greeting, for the usual response to such a greeting, while often pleasant, is far less enthusiastic. So, my first thought was: That’s attitude. That young man’s got it, and that’s good!

Now, attitude may be defined in more than one way. It may be defined as “a manner of acting, feeling, or thinking that shows one’s disposition...” It is a real opening to the heart of an individual that is revealing. Martin Vanbee has been quoted as saying, “It is your actions and attitude when you are on your own that reflect what you really are.”

Also, attitude may be defined as “a bodily position showing...a mental state, emotion, or mood.” Regardless of the definition, attitude reflects one’s outlook on life, and that outlook effects, in one way or another, everything that one says and does.

Attitude has a bearing upon every aspect of life. It effects one’s productivity in the place of work, it impacts one’s relationships with everyone encountered, and to a large extent, it is a major factor that determines one’s own happiness.

A positive attitude is exceedingly important. It can be, and usually is, the difference between success and failure in life. An anonymous individual wrote, “They conquer who believe they can.”

At any time and in every situation, attitude is an important attribute to possess.

News from the Kings Mountain community

I had word on Monday from Jenny Goodpaster that she had several guests on Sunday for dinner. Sam and Mary Dean Phifer from Mt. Sterling, Greg and Deborah Guess from Baghdad, Jenny’s sons Jody and Shirley Roberts, and Micah and Tammy Goodpaster and their son Ethan. They all enjoyed a wonderful meal and were able to stay and visit for several hours. It was a GOOD Sunday afternoon for Jenny.

The Locust Grove Baptist Church will be celebrating their Homecoming on Sunday, Oct. 27. The morning service will be given by Keith Bowling and afterwards a meal will be enjoyed. The Heavenly Helpers, a singing group from the Eubank area, will be singing after the meal.

Mary Lou Williams and her husband traveled to Frankenmuth, Mich. to visit Mary Lou’s sister last Friday. While there, they shopped at Bronners Christmas Store. It is reported to be the largest Christmas store in the world!! They all enjoyed their weekend together. Bronners sounds like a place I would enjoy!!

Violet Bell and I, along with many others, attended the funeral of Bertha Lou Walls Whitaker on Saturday at Fox Funeral Home. I was happy that so many of the people who attended stood up and spoke so highly of Bertha Lou. I was two years ahead of Bertha Lou in high school and she always impressed me with her kind manner and everyone liked her. She waded through about 10 inches of snow to play the piano for mine and my late husband’s wedding. Those are the kind of things I think of when I think of Bertha Lou. She will be missed by so many people.

Television Ministry for the church.

They enjoy collecting antiques and traveling, but most of all, spending time with their immediate and extended family. The have made building a family a high priority in their lives and have two sons, Terrence (Deborah) of Lexington and Anthony (Doreen) of Atlanta, Ga. They have four grandchildren Terrence Jr., Tyriq, Terrell and Tevin Tichenor. Together they have 13 sisters and brothers and a host of nephews, nieces, uncles, aunts and cousins whom they love deeply.

They found their true love early in life and built a marriage that they've enjoyed for a lifetime.

We, their children are blessed to have such an example of love, service, devotion and hard work.

A 50th anniversary celebration is scheduled in their honor.

Pleasant View Baptist Church news

By Scena Ann Petrey

Sunday, Oct. 20 was a busy day for Pleasant View. Following the morning message, we had a luncheon in honor of our pastors: Bro. Kyle, Bro. Jamie and Bro. Matthew. All three of you are an intricate part of our church and its leadership.

In bringing the morning message, Bro. Kyle first talked about all the magnificent wonders in our world today – Niagara Falls, the Grand Canyon, our oceans – to name a few. All these wonders have been created by God and He is the most magnificent.

His message entitled, “SHAPE: Heartfelt Passions”, was taken from 1 Timothy 3:1. Our world today tells us to “follow your dreams; put your name up in lights!”

But we have had heart surgery when we become Christians. God gives us a new heart with new dreams, new hopes, and new accomplishments through Him.

Once we surrender to God, He becomes our happiness. “Making Jesus your everything will give you your ‘all in all’; that will help you meet your dreams and accomplish your goals,” concluded Bro. Kyle.

The service concluded with a song by Bro. Jamie. “I surrender all my silent hopes and dreams; everything I have belongs to You.” This is true; “without Him, I would be nothing.” But with Jesus, I have everything!

The Sunday evening service was the deacon ordination. Josh Jacobs, Byron Wall and Shane Morgan was ordained. Dwaine Martin, who was ordained at another church, was installed as a deacon. Bros. Aaron Hogue and Kerry Jones led the ordination. Both had very moving messages, not only to the new deacons, but to the entire church as well.

We extend sympathy and prayers to Hester Hardwick, Lisa, Britanee and Zane Young and Verna Reynolds. Their husband, dad, granddad, and brother, Ollis Hardwick, passed away last Monday, Oct. 14. He was a deacon at our church and a faithful member who was always there until his health failed. He will be sorely missed.

The Fall Festival will be Sunday, Oct. 27 at the shelter from 5 to 7 p.m. Join us for carnival style games, tons of candy, seasonal crafts, pumpkin carving, outdoor concert, costume contest, supper and lots of fun. It is going to be a great afternoon for all ages, and it is free.

Now is the time of the year that we start collecting shoeboxes to send to churches in needy countries so that pastors have a tool to introduce the Lord to children. The red and green boxes are on the right front pew in the church auditorium and may be picked up any time.

The ladies of the church have invited everyone to join them for a night of SOUP on Friday, Nov. 15 at 6 p.m. in the fellowship hall of the church. Please bring cans of soup and crackers for donation. Also bring a mug filled with goodies for our “Cup of Friendship Exchange. Our Women’s Ministry Leadership Team will provide a soup supper and a special night to discover how we “Serve Our Unique Purpose” (soup).

Thought for the week: “If you are headed in the wrong direction, God allows U-turns.”

News from Fairview Baptist Church

By Shelby Lakes

On Sunday, service at Fairview began with Paul Rice playing two songs on his homemade Mountain Dulcimer – Christmas Memory and In the Garden. Our fall revival starts next Sunday morning with Bro. Jonathan Grizzell from Hustonville Baptist Church. Please come and invite someone to come with you.

Bro. Johnny Baker’s message was on the theme of revival and taken from Psalm 19 and other passages. Bro. Johnny said knowing the rapture could happen at any time should lead us to want revival, and described revival as Christians waking from a deep sleep. We allow so much to pull us away from God, he said.

He quoted Romans 11:2: “And be not conformed to this world: but be ye transformed by the renewing of your mind, that ye may prove what is that good, and acceptable, and perfect, will of God.”

Bro. Johnny wanted us to ask ourselves three questions: 1) Are there areas where you can grow? 2) Are there areas you still struggle with? 3) Was there a time when you were closer to the Lord?

The most critical issue for Christians is dullness, Bro. Johnny said. We have lost our astonishment for God. We need a message that God is still awesome. God is still in control, and his name is Jesus Christ. We need to look at His word, not only at the world. Above anything man has said, you can trust His word; you can trust your bible.

How long has it been that you read God’s word and it rejoiced your heart? Bro. Johnny asked. If it has been even a week, you need revival.

The bible is a priceless book with a priceless message; it comes from God himself, and can cleanse our lives in many ways. (End of sermon summary)

104 attended Sunday school; 153 were present for the worship service.

News from Highland Methodist Church

Sunday, Oct. 20, was a beautiful day for Highland's homecoming. There were wonderful instrumental and vocal music, heartwarming prayers and testimonies. There were numerous visitors whom the Highland congregation enjoyed and appreciated.

There were visitors from Tennessee, Indiana, Louisville, Lexington, London, Somerset, Stanford and Danville.

Iva and Beverly Young had as guests Iva's daughter, Diane, and family; son, Glen, and his son, Jacob, and Bev's, stepdaughter, Vickie Senior, (Danville).

The former Ashley sisters, Pauline Wilson and Joylene Collier and her son, Buster, were present.

Buddy and Frankie Young had numerous family members. They were the Scott Young family, Jourdan Frankenburger and the Travis Blake family.

Once again Elsa Blake played three beautiful selections on her violin.

Betty Jo Singleton had as her guests brother, Jimmy, and wife, Betty.

Ellen Hunkins had invited Christalynn Hubble to be a guest singer. Christalynn provided two beautiful solos; then, later assisted her son, PJ, in singing another beautiful song. He was an inspiration to all, especially our young children. Christalynn stated that they had tried to get PJ interested in sports, but he had no interest, but he had become highly interested in singing. Christalynn's husband was in attendance too.

Once again Mayme and

Sam Cordier were present, along with three other family members, one of which was a great grandchild. Mayme referred to Sam and herself as being like the biblical Abraham and Sarah in helping to raise this little child. Mayme once again blessed us with her spiritual humor. She also shared in music by singing, "My God Is Real." She also brought this writer a special food gift. Thanks Mayme!

Mayme had been down on an earlier occasion and started to paint the Hutchison Addition sign post at the cemetery. Daley, her brother, came down and finished the job. Thanks!

Isaac Hughes had as his guest his girlfriend, Olivia Sloan, from Tennessee. Isaac and his mother, Dawn, sang once again their special requested song, "The Long Black Train."

Rita and Don Ballard were back in attendance and brought a neighbor, Mrs. McKinzie.

Fonzo McGuffey, Bertha Ernest, Charlene Rogers and Racie Gilbert were in attendance.

Rene' Wood also worshipped with us.

Several members from the Laswell family were again present. Billy and his wife; twin sister, Betty, and her husband, Boyd Bishop, and another sister, Bonita. Some of the members of the Laswell family were not present this year. One of them being our dear Peggy Allen, who wasn't feeling well and is facing knee surgery.

Others that were added to our prayer list were some family members of Frankie Young's that were in a very serious out-of-state car accident last week; also a friend of Buddy and Frankie's, Hugh Cantrell, (Nicholasville) and the Clinton Sims family (loss of a son).

Too, Jerry Ellis (Moreland) has injured his shoulder and will be having surgery this week.

The choir, featuring soloists Dawn Cheetham and Rebecca Garcia, sang, "I'm Still Amazed," and "Hope of the Ages."

Doris Scilley sang, "Be Not Afraid," and "The Old Rugged Cross Made the Difference."

The closing congregational song was, "Amazing Grace," sung to the tune of "Joy to the World."

Our harpist was unable to attend due to some scheduling conflicts.

Thanks go to Joe Hutchison for audio and kitchen services.

Too, thanks go to Kim May and Betty Jo Singleton for organ and piano playing.

Tremendous thanks go to the men and women providing the overflowing tables of delicious foods for a tremendous meal.

This writer apologizes for anyone I may have unintentionally overlooked and/or for any misspelled names.

There will be an annual charge conference meeting next Sunday at 2 p.m.

Join us each Sunday at 10 and 11 a.m. for one never knows what blessings or joys one might miss by not being at "the little, white Highland United Methodist Church beside the road."

Smith, Tyler Smith, Kayla Spencer, Brayli Steberl, Maygan Taylor, Tangela Van Winkle, Alexis Villarreal, David Walker and Carissa Whitaker.

First Priority Cruise-In

A car and tractor cruise-in in downtown Stanford Saturday raised more than $3,500 for the Christian group First Priority Heritage. The money raised will be used to support high and middle school First Priority clubs in Lincoln, Boyle, Mercer, Garrard and Madison counties. Above, cars of all ages, from antique to modern, were on display in front of the old Lincoln County courthouse during the cruise-in. This blue 1966 Chevelle, at left, won the "People's Choice Top Car" award. It is owned by Ronald and Sharleen Rodgers of Liberty. First Priority student Will Hacker, bottom left, gives out candy to a trick-or-treating child during the event.

Stanford Elementary School's council has requested input from the community during the principal selection process. An online survey is available from the school's website, which can be accessed using this shortened URL: <http://bit.ly/StnfrdES>. The survey is open to all staff, community members and parents. Paper copies of the survey can be picked up at the school and need to be returned before Monday.

PRINCIPAL

Story, who stayed on as principal through Friday after giving his resignation letter, has not commented publicly about his reasons for stepping down. Hatter has speculated it could have been precipitated by Stanford's poor state assessment scores but said the district did not push for Story to step down.

Smith is a retired principal who led Danville High School from 2006 until mid-2011. He spent 27 years as an educator at Danville High, the school he graduated from in 1978.

Lincoln County High School recently employed Smith as a leadership coach following the school's designation as a persistently low-achieving school in late 2011.

Hatter said the Stanford school council told her they were interested in Smith because he is from "out-of-district" but still knowledgeable about Lincoln County.

"We were comfortable with him because he had been the interim at Highland (Elementary)," she said. "He's supportive of our improvement efforts and knows the district. It's not like a complete stranger coming in."

The Stanford school council underwent training last week on the selection process for a new principal.

The school began accepting applications Friday and could accept applications for up to 30 days, but because it's in the middle of the school year, the council could also request a waiver from the state to shorten that period, Hatter said.

The council is asking for input from the community through an online survey to help in the principal-selection process.

The survey is posted on the Stanford Elementary School website and will be available until early Monday morning. The school's website is accessible by visiting this shortened URL: <http://bit.ly/StnfrdES>.

Hatter has said Story is still under contract with the school district and will be placed into another role.

Arnett is a historian who also serves as chairwoman for the Native American affairs committee of the Logan-Whitley chapter of Daughters of the American Revolution.

Sheriff, county clerk ask for $15K from fiscal court

By Ben Kleppinger
ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Lincoln County's sheriff and county clerk say they want thousands in funding from the county fiscal court restored in order to keep their budgets running smoothly.

Both offices used to receive $7,500 annually from Lincoln County Fiscal Court, but those subsidies were ended in this year's budget in order to save money, Judge-Executive Jim Adams said.

"When we did our budgets, we were trying to make cuts as best we could and that was part of it," Adams said.

But Adams said he was open to the requests from Sheriff Curt Folger and County Clerk Sonny Spoonamore, who said they planned their budgets for the year expecting the money from the county.

Spoonamore said he built his budget in January with the $7,500 in place to help cover computer expenses, which cost his office tens of thousands. The court didn't finalize it's fiscal year 2014 budget until later in the year.

"We would like to have what was given to us once before gave back," Spoonamore said. "It's tough on us."

Folger said his office has used the $7,500 to cover a wide variety of expenses.

"We were kind of counting on that for fuel, for maintenance, for lease (costs)," he said. "We was using it for a lot of different things that we don't have now."

Adams said he will have County Treasurer Lee Ann Smith look into the budget and see if there are areas where the county is already projected to come in under-budget. But times are getting tight for everyone, the fiscal court included, he warned.

"I think we need to at least take a look at where we can come up with $15,000 (and not go over-budget)" he said. "We're all going to have to do more (cutting) is the way it looks. If you're not going to raise your revenues, which we voted not to do, then you have to cut expenses."

Adams asked Folger and Spoonamore to have patience while the court tries to find them some funding.

Budgets can be especially tight at the sheriff's office this time of year, until property tax revenue starts coming in — an issue Adams said he was aware of when he asked Folger for a little time.

"I know that doesn't satisfy you, Curt, but can you live with it?" Adams asked.

"I can live with anything," Folger replied.

In other fiscal court business, magistrates approved spending $200,000 in state aid funds to pave 1.7 miles of Preachersville Road; 6/10ths of a mile of Harris Creek Road; and 5/10ths of a mile of Pond School Road.

Adams said officials prioritized the roads most in need of resurfacing and those were the three roads the county could afford to do with funding made available.

"Asphalt is about $85 a ton, so $200,000 doesn't go too far," he said.

dishwasher using a standard fire extinguisher.

"The staff had tried to put it out with a portable fire extinguisher, but once we got here, it was still flaming, still blowing balls of fire out," Maples said. "We got the rest of it put out with a portable fire extinguisher."

The dishwasher put out a large amount of smoke before firefighters extinguished the fire, filling the entire two-story building with smoke.

"You couldn't see nothing. It was unbelievable how much smoke was in that building," said a Lincoln sheriff's deputy standing guard in front of the middle school during the evacuation. "The school done an excellent job of getting the place evacuated."

Middle-school students on the blue, green, purple and red teams were evacuated from the building along with all adults, said Jim Ward, a district administrator who was helping manage the situation last week.

A school official on the scene said 51 staff members were evacuated from the school along with the students.

"We're going to have our normal loading of the buses in the afternoon, just like we always do," Ward said as he prepared to speak to the students over the gymnasium PA. "They're safe right now — that's what we were most interested in is making sure that we got them away from the building and got them in a safe location."

Ward said students on the middle school's gold team — about 120 of them — continued with their normal school day because their classrooms are in the McGuffey 6th-Grade Center, not the middle school.

Maples said that after the building was evacuated and the fire extinguished, firefighters began to ventilate the building.

"We got most of the smoke out of the building. We had to set up a lot of ventilation because the building is so big," he said.

Firefighters quickly cleared the building of smoke, but carbon-dioxide levels remained too high for anyone to safely enter the building for close to two hours.

Maples said the CO2 levels dropped back to normal and the school building was turned over to school officials at 3:30 p.m. After-school activities at the school were canceled for the day, he said.

The truck leaked "minimal fluids" into the lake and hazardous materials responders did not have to be called to the scene, Gilliam said.

Responders were on the scene for approximately three hours.

career to be "math-affiliated."

With a dad who worked as a 4-H agent and a mom who is also a high-school teacher, Stevens said that gave her an early understanding of working with youth.

Stevens' husband helps her out in the classroom, too — in a way.

"It's beneficial that my husband is a civil engineer," she said. "It's very convenient for real-world examples of math."

Beyond her classroom, Stevens is also a coaching-session instructor, extended-

She leads the academic team as head coach and she's involved with the Kentucky Education Association, Lincoln County High School Patriot Club and Lincoln County Distinguished Young Women Committee.

This was the 13th year Ashland Inc. and the Kentucky Department of Education have co-sponsored the Kentucky Teacher Achievement Awards. Applications for the program were distributed across the state, and the first tier of the selection process was completed in August, with 24 teachers selected as 2014 Ashland Inc. Teachers Achievement Award winners.

Ten top scorers — three each from the elementary- and middle-school levels and four from the high-school level — were selected, and teams of educators visited the teachers' classrooms to view them at work and to conduct personal interviews.

From those 10, three were selected as 2014 Kentucky Teachers of the Year. The selection of the overall Kentucky Teacher of the Year was based on the compilation of scores from all phases of judging.

The singer's grandparents originally hailed from Kentucky, so even though she tends to respectfully decline most of the invitations she receives, she decided to make the trip to Stanford.

"Sometimes you get the call and it's more than a phone call," Coolidge said during an interview after the ceremony.

Mayor Bill Miracle declared Saturday as "Rita Coolidge Day."

After Coolidge flawlessly sung "Amazing Grace" in the Cherokee language, Lincoln County Judge-Executive Jim Adams honored her with a colorful bouquet of flowers.

"I accept these on behalf of Chief Doublehead," Coolidge said.

The Cherokee chief to whom the singer referred is honored on the back of the marker. Even though Chief Doublehead frequently attacked Kentucky settlements in the 1700s, he was ultimately able to negotiate significant land and peace treaties on behalf of Native Americans. The chief was an honored guest of three U.S. presidents — George Washington, John Adams and Thomas Jefferson.

After the ceremony, dozens of people posed for pictures with Coolidge while drinking hot apple cider and eating cookies inside the courthouse.

"I think it's marvelous that Angela has put all this work in," Coolidge said. "She was answering to a Higher Power."

Coolidge, who returns to San Diego today, said she hopes to come back to Stanford for another Rita Coolidge Day.

"It's great sometimes to go back where you came from," she said.

Three Kentucky auctioneers competed, but none of them earned one of the 10 qualifying slots.

The ultimate champion of the event was Brian Little, an auctioneer from Wann, Okla.

Little and the other nine qualifiers will compete at the world championship event in Knoxville, Iowa, in June.

There are two other qualifier events this year — one in Butler, Mo., and one in Dinuba, Calif.

Each of those events will qualify 10 competitors as well, for a total of 30 qualifiers for the world championship.

Akers said hosting a qualifier for the “prestigious event” has the potential to generate additional business for the stockyards if attendees of the event are impressed by how well-run the event is.

Hosting is also a lot of work, including planning social events, making sure each competitor gets equally good cattle to sell and setting up for live

Blue Grass South, which auctions off an estimated some point — or even the world championship, Akers said.

New director wants to grow Stanford theatre community

Winter play a possible jumping-off point for acting in Lincoln County

By Ben Kleppinger

ben@theinteriorjournal.com

STANFORD — Stanford's Community Arts Center has enlisted the help of a theatre veteran from North Carolina to direct a Christmas play, "Miracle on 34th Street."

But Danville resident Julya Mirro hopes directing the play is hopefully just the first small step toward growing a thriving acting community in the Stanford area and "putting this place on the map" for theatre.

"I'm a big believer in 'if you build it, they will come.' I believe that if you're willing to put yourself out there and do something, that people will respect that," Mirro said. "I think there are people who have been surprised that I want to be here. Ultimately, my goal is to have people who come to this area to be trained to do theatre."

Julya Mirro, a veteran of theaters in North Carolina, recently moved to Danville and will be directing a play at the First Southern Community Arts Center in Stanford this winter. She is seen here acting in a play, "Fat Pig," by Neil LaBute.

Mirro moved to Danville in September, bringing her theatre company business, "little independent theatre," with her.

At this point, "lit" is just a name with Mirro behind it, but Mirro, who was heavily involved in acting communities in North Carolina, said she has people she's worked with before who are moving or otherwise traveling to the Blue Grass to work with her.

"I'm hoping to build something here," she said. "Have a theatre company to me is about providing an opportunity to people who would otherwise not have it to act, to direct, to teach. ... If you want to be a part of something, then you should

People who plan to attend should wear comfortable clothes, bring their known conflicts through December and arrive on-time.

Auditions for "Miracle on 34th Street" are this weekend at the arts center, located on Depot Street in downtown Stanford.

Mirro said she will need "people of all ages" for the play.

"It requires some children, some adults and even a Santa Clause type," she said. "I'm looking forward to seeing who's interested."

Mirro said she hopes the process of putting together a play will provide the initial community connections that can develop into whatever kind of theatre activities people are interested in.

It may be that the Stanford community would be interested in acting classes in town, or that another option in Danville may already be available, she said. Whatever the community is interested in doing, that's what she wants to provide, she added.

Mirro, who said she has been performing since she was 4 years old, has taught theatre as a professor and taken on nearly every role there is when it comes to putting on a play.

Mirro brought her talents to central Kentucky because she is technical director for the Danville-based theater education and performance company Salt River Shakespeare.

The artistic director of Salt River Shakespeare, Craig Payst, took Mirro to the Bluebird Cafe in Stanford, where she saw a sign pointing to the First Southern Community Arts Center.

Danville triple homicide suspect pleads not guilty

By Todd Kleffman

tkleffman@schurz.com

Murder suspect Kenneth Allen Keith pleaded not guilty last week to charges that he shot three people to death during a robbery of a Danville business last month and his attorney again professed his innocence in the halls of the courthouse.

“He’s not guilty,” Mark Stanziano said.

Keith, 48, a Baptist preacher from Burnside, appeared at his Oct. 16 arraignment via video from the Boyle County Detention Center, where Boyle District Judge Jeff Dotson ordered that he remain held without bond until a preliminary hearing the case scheduled for next Wednesday. In his brief comments, Keith spoke quietly and referred to Dotson as “your honor.”

Outside the courtroom, Barbara Lewis, mother of victim Mike Hockensmith, had an even-keeled reaction to the first court appearance of the man accused of killing her son, his wife Angela and Daniel Smith, a gold buyer from Richmond who was known to carry large amounts of cash and who police indicate might have been the target of the robbery.

“There are only five people who know exactly what happened: Three of them are dead, God above and the shooter,” Lewis said. “I want to make sure this man is guilty before I judge him. In my heart, I’m not sure. I like to think I can be like the court and he’s innocent until proven guilty.”

Lewis, along with Mike Hockensmith’s sister-in-law, Terra Hockensmith, wore black T-shirts with a Superman emblem on the front and “In loving memory: Mike and Angie Hockensmith, Sept. 20, 2013. W.W.J.D.” printed on the back.

“He’s been Mike’s hero for years, ever since he was little,” Lewis said of the crime-fighting super hero also known as “The Man of Steel.”

Lewis said her grandchilddren — a 9-year-old boy and his 14-month-old sister who were at ABC Gold Games and More when the shootings occurred — are doing “about as well as expected” under the circumstances. The boy, who called 911 to report that his parents had been killed, is aware of what’s going on, she said.

Lewis said the murders have devastated her family, her son’s family and Keith’s family, whom she has not spoken too since the murders and did not know beforehand even though the Hockensmiths had attended Keith’s church and Mike Hockensmith used to work for Keith when he operated King’s Corner pawn shop on Fourth Street, which later became ABC Gold Games and More.

“It has destroyed my family but it has brought us closer together than ever before,” she said.

Working with information supplied by an anonymous caller, police arrested Keith on Oct. 9 at Gold Rush, the pawn shop he owns in Somerset and executed search warrants on the business, Main Street Baptist Church and the parsonage next door where Keith, a former Green Beret, lives with his wife and 8-year-old daughter.

During the searches, police seized several firearms, a variety of ammunition, “suspected blood” samples, and several computers, cell phones and other electronic devices. More than $100,000 in cash was found in the Gold Rush search, according to court records. At ABC, police recovered 14 spent .22 caliber shells and $1,350 in the cash register.

Stanziano said Wednesday that most of the money found in the Gold Rush store came from recent inheritances by Keith and his wife. “It’s America. People are allowed to have cash in the safes,” he said.

Stanziano said he has seen his client three times since his arrest and, despite being “scared and disappointed he can’t be with his family,” Keith remains in relatively good spirits.

“He’s girding up for the idea that this will be a marathon and he’ll probably be in jail the whole time,” Stanziano said.

"They were tough. They are a real good team," Lincoln coach Andrew Kaiser said of the Lady Rebels. "I thought we played great. I thought we played well, we communicated, we talked. They just got the best of us, they really did."

Lady Eagles hoops team repeats as state champ

The Lincoln County Middle School seventh-grade girls basketball team had lofty expectations going into the 2013 season, with hopes of winning a second straight state title.

And the team did just that.

The Lady Eagles soared high to reach their goal, handling every obstacle in front of them in the 2013 Seventh Grade State Tournament. Lincoln went 6-0 in the tournament, capping off play with a 49-36 win over West Carter in the championship game Sunday at the Kentucky Basketball Academy in Lexington.

"Since open gym practice in June, they set their goal of winning the state tournament," Lincoln coach Darin Lane said. "They have been focused on that goal and have worked very hard to attain it. Every player on the roster contributed to this title and the coaching staff really appreciated their effort throughout the season."

Game-ending touchdown lifts Pats to 21-20 win; clinches playoff berth

By Nancy Leedy

STANFORD — Lincoln County is heading back to the state playoffs.

The Patriots rallied from a 13-point fourth-quarter deficit Friday night to edge District 7 rival Southwestern 21-20 and clinch a berth in the Class 5A postseason in three weeks.

"It was a must-win game. Our kids knew that and their kids did, too," Lincoln coach Mike Settles said. "This is really how high school football should be played, with high intensity and excitement from both sides. Both teams made plays tonight and thankfully we scored one more point than they did."

Down 20-7 with just 9:13 left in the fourth quarter, Lincoln (5-4, 2-2 District 7) went 57 yards to the goal line on its second possession of the fourth quarter, with the drive culminating in a 27-yard touchdown pass from Dalton Godbey to Trevor Gaines to make it 20-14 with 6:42 to play.

After forcing Southwestern (1-8, 1-3) to punt, Lincoln began its next drive ominously, backed up to its own 8-yard line. Godbey, who was 15-for-28 passing for 177 yards, went to the air to advance play, hitting Tanner Johnson for a first-down pass and Gaines, who had 11 catches for 119 yards, for three first-down receptions. A personal foul on Southwestern also helped the Lincoln offense along and, with less than 25 ticks left on the clock, put the Patriots in prime scoring position at the Warrior 1-yard line.

Lincoln found itself backed back out to the 11 after a sack and an offside call, but Godbey ran the ball back to the 2, then ran a hurry-up play to spike the ball and kill the clock with just 4.6 seconds showing. Time expired on the next play, just before Marvin Robinson carried the ball into the end zone to tie the game at 20-all.

Boone Baird, who had already made two extra-point kicks, had to wait to try for the go-ahead point with Southwestern's Chandler Gover injured on the scoring play. But when it was his turn, Baird delivered the game-winner.

The senior kicker said he could feel the pressure of the moment as he stepped up to make the kick.

"There was a little pressure. I mean, no time left, I had to make it," Baird said. "Coach Settles said to me at halftime that this game was going to come down to a field goal. It didn't come down to a field goal but it came down to an extra point, and I'm glad I made it."

The pressure was off after the kick for Baird and his teammates and the celebration was on, with the postseason a reality.

"It feels amazing getting to go to playoffs," Baird said. "This was a huge game, because we were only guaranteed one more game if we didn't win. We knew we had to come out and win this to get that one more plus one."

Settles said that the comeback effort was just one more testament to the team's ability.

LADY PATS BOW OUT

Lincoln volleyball team falls 3-0 to Garrard in 45th District semis

By Nancy Leedy

DANVILLE — There will be no repeat as district champion for the Lincoln County volleyball team.

The defending 45th District Tournament champion Lady Patriots were denied any chance of a repeat Tuesday night, as Garrard County knocked out Lincoln in straight sets in the tournament's semifinal round at Danville.

Lincoln lost to Garrard 14-25, 19-25, 18-25 to end its season at 9-23.

"Not the result that we hoped for. The right team didn't show up tonight," Lincoln coach Amanda Wiles said. "I think a lot of us haven't had the experience of coming to district with the responsibility. We lost a lot of seniors last year so a lot of girls had to step up and be leaders this year. They did a great job this season with that, but I think the pressure was just a little bit heavy in a game like this, so we didn't really execute our offense the way we wanted to."

Lincoln never led in either of the first two games of the match, undone by mistakes and a strong game by Garrard (17-8). The Lady Lions jumped out to a 13-7 lead over the Lady Patriots in the first game and a 6-1 lead in the second.

Garrard moved on to easily take the first game 25-14, but Lincoln did rally in the second game to challenge. The Lady Patriots overcame a 9-5 deficit to pull within 11-10 only to have the Lady Lions answer with a 5-0 run to regain control. Garrard held Lincoln at bay the rest of the game to claim the 25-19 win.

"I think the biggest problem tonight was the fact that we weren't able to pass in a way that we could execute our offense," Wiles said. "We didn't get to show tonight

Gourley leads Lincoln cross country varsity in LexCath Invitational

By Nancy Leedy
LEXINGTON — In many high school sports, running is used for preseason conditioning and as punishment and is overwhelmingly disliked by most athletes.

But not all.
For thousands of strong-willed Kentucky girls and boys, running is their sport of choice, and over a thousand of those young athletes hit the ground running Saturday in one of cross country’s biggest meets of the season – the Lexington Catholic Invitational at the New Horse Park.

The large varsity (Class 3A) girls competition drew 164 runners and 22 different teams while the large varsity boys event drew 191 runners and 24 teams.

A continuous rainfall kept the Horse Park course wet and slick but that did not stop running powerhouses Daviess County and Sacred Heart Academy from dominating the girls’ division, with each team placing its five scoring runners in the top 25. Daviess County’s Whitney O’Bryan took the individual title in the girls event, winning in a time of 18:20.28.

Lincoln did not place in the team competition, with only one runner, Morgan Gourley, on course in the girls large varsity 3.1-mile race. The sophomore Lady Patriot was Lincoln’s top varsity runner Saturday, placing 62nd overall in 21:34.88.

Like the Lincoln girls, the Patriot varsity did not field a team, coming up a runner short of the required five-runner minimum. Senior Jordan Smith led the Patriots with a time of 19:24.96 to place him 142nd overall. Matthew Bradley ran 176th in the pack with a time of 21:29.06, followed by Hayden Gifford in 188th place in 22:55.59 and Luke Smith in 191st-place in 24:26.08.

LADY PATRIOT runner Morgan Gourley (1969) runs in the rain during Saturday’s Lexington Catholic Invitational cross country meet at the New Horse Park in Lexington. A constant rainfall fell over the meet making for a wet and slick course. Gourley, a sophomore, finished 62nd out of 164 girls in the large girls varsity (Class 3A) run, crossing the finish line of the 3.1-mile race in 21:34.88. She was the lone Lincoln runner in the girls varsity race. Lincoln managed to put a full team on course in only one event, the boys middle school 4K. goalkeeper Jerrica Kidd and back into the left corner of the net.

The shot, which proved to be the only goal Boyle would need for the win, came after Lincoln's Taelor Owens attempted to clear a long direct kick by Boyle's Kylie Thompson that came into the penalty box. Owens kicked the ball out of the box, but directly to Harris, who fired from about 25-yards out to break the score-less tie.

Boyle, which outshot Lincoln 11-8, threatened to score several times in the first half off seven shots on goal. Kidd, who had six saves for the game, got the save on three of those shots, including a short shot from 5-yards out by Savannah Stevens.

After a scoring drought of over 37 minutes in the second half, Boyle was finally able to put the game out of reach. Madelyn LaFavers crossed the ball from the right wing and Kylie Thompson fired in the shot just out of Kidd's reach.

While disappointed in the loss, Kaiser said he was pleased with the Lady Patriots' effort.

"I took a lot of positives from this game, a lot. I mean, the girls hustled, communicated, moved. I thought it was a real good game," he said. "It seemed to get a little more physical than I liked. But, that being said, it was a good, good game. They girls hustled, it just didn't go our way."

With both Lincoln and Boyle advancing to the 12th Region Tournament at Southwestern, the Lady Patriots will play on even after the loss.

"Our season's not over. (Loss) is tough but we get to keep playing," Kaiser said. "I thought we worked hard, we worked well together, and that's what I'm looking for at region. We're going to Lincoln did have one full team competing in the Lexington Catholic meet, with Levi Henderson, Zane Rousey, Justin Cummins, Austin Wethington and Devon Brock lacing up their running shoes for the middle school boys 4K race.

Henderson led the middle school team and had Lincoln's high finish of the day, placing 47th out of 139 runners in a time of 17:46.84. Rousey wasn't far behind Henderson, coming in in 18:13.96 to place him 54th. Cummins crossed in 81st place in a time of 19:16.55, Wethington ran 101st in 20:11.20 and Brock came in 124th in 21:55.72.

Lincoln finished 12th out of 12 teams.

DRAMATIC WIN

ty to handle adversity.

“Our kids just didn’t quit and I’m so proud of them. That just shows how far we’ve come,” he said. “We’ve faced a lot of adversity this year (death of assistant coach Mickey Goodwin) and we faced a lot of adversity in this game, and our kids bounced back in both situations positively. And that says a lot.”

“They knew what they had to do tonight, our ‘bottom line’ is to make plays and they responded and made the plays. It just took every second of the game to do it.”

It was Southwestern playing catch up early in the game, with Lincoln striking first. Taylor Wilson recovered a fumble at the Southwestern 45 and the Patriots needed just four plays to reach the end zone. Robinson finished off the drive with a 13-yard run to put the Patriots up 7-0 midway of the first quarter.

Southwestern managed to even the score before halftime. The Warriors’ second drive ended in an interception, but running back Logan Campisano, who racked up 275 yards rushing on 26 carries, was striding to the end zone on the third series. He carried the ball seven times on the 10-play drive, scoring on a 12-yard run to make it 7-7.

Lincoln squandered an excellent opportunity to retake the lead early in the third quarter. Andrew Wilks recovered a fumble on Southwestern’s opening drive to set the Patriots up at the Warrior 7, but Lincoln could not move the ball, then Baird’s 22-yard field goal attempt was wide left.

Southwestern took the lead just over a minute later, with Campisano sprinting 87-yards to the end zone to put the Warriors on top 14-7.

LINCOLN placekicker Boone Baird kicked the game-winning extra-point kick to secure the Patriots' a 21-20 win over District 7 rival Southwestern Friday. The kick capped off a 14-0 scoring run by Lincoln in the final 6:42 to earn the comeback win.

STATE CHAMPS

From B1

Allison Cummins, Whitney Hatter, Taryn Johnson, Emma King, Anna Lane, Kaylee McAninch, Zariah Napier, Lydia Rice, Trinity Shearer, Haley Southerland, Jasmine Whited and Kaitlyn Wilks – began their quest to repeat Friday night in pool play. Lincoln took on a tough opponent in Christian Academy of Louisville and won 48-43. It was no contest in Lincoln’s second pool play game on Saturday, with the Lady Eagles winning by forfeit. Tournament play started Saturday afternoon and Lincoln got through the first round easily, romping 44-7 over Harrison County.

It was a busy day for the Lady Eagles on Sunday as they continued their state-title quest. Lincoln opened the day with a 39-26 quarter-final win over Crosby of Louisville, then took the semifinal game 44-38 over Russell County to set up the title game with West Carter.

“(This is) truly a special group of girls,” said Lane, who coaches the team with Pops Stevenson, Eric King and Rebecca Shearer. “We had great effort from all the girls.”

Lane was quick to point out that the Lady Eagles and their coaches couldn’t have achieved their goal without their supporters.

“This title was a team effort, with support coming from a nice crowd that followed us to the games,” he said. “And we want to say ‘thank you’ to those fans for all the support throughout this season.”

VOLLEYBALL

“We didn’t get to show tonight what we can do. If we’d been able to execute our offense a little bit better I think the outcome might have been a little bit different.”

It appeared Lincoln was ready to make a comeback in game three, with the Lady Patriots on the attack early for their first lead of the night. The team scored four straight points off the service of Erica Olsen to go up 5-2, however, the lead would not last as Randa Morris served up three straight points to tie the game at 5-all.

The Lady Lions were not able to overtake the Lady Patriots until late in the game. Morris served up two quick points to nose Garrard ahead 16-14, then with the game deadlocked at 18-18, Kacie Dotson stepped up to put the game away, serving up seven points in a row for the 25-18 final.

“I felt like we finally got into a little bit of a groove in that last game, but as soon as we got the momentum it just broke back down,” said Wiles.

Garrard extended its season by at least two more games with the 3-0 win, as the victory earned the team an automatic berth in next week’s 12th Region Tournament at Pulaski County and a spot in Thursday night’s district final with Danville (18-13).

For Lincoln, the 2013 season has reached its end.

“We were glad that we had the opportunity to come out here and be a part of the district tournament,” Wiles said. “It’s something that’s exciting every year. I believe our district teams are very evenly matched for the most part so all games are usually exciting. It’s a fun district to be a part of. We enjoy it and we’re just ready to regroup and see what we do next year.”

FARM FACTS

By Dan Grigson

Lawns need continued care during fall

Source: A.J. Powell

Taking care of your lawn during the fall is as important as it is during spring and summer, even more so for lawns with cool-season grasses such as Kentucky bluegrass and tall fescue. Nearly all fertilizers and broadleaf herbicides should be applied in the fall, and it is by far the best time to renovate (seed) lawns.

Here are some tips for cool-season grasses:

Fertilize – Fertilizing your lawn in the fall will help it grow stronger, thicker and greener. Cool-season grasses should be fertilized with nitrogen in late October and again in four to six weeks. Use either farm fertilizers such as ammonium nitrate or urea, or use specialty fertilizers found in garden centers. The normal rate is 1 to 1.5 pounds of nitrogen per 1,000 square feet of lawn. Remember to spread it evenly over your lawn.

Control weeds – If broadleaf weeds such as clover, dandelion, plantain and chickweed are growing in your lawn, fall is the best time of year to get them under control. Almost all broadleaf weeds can be controlled selectively in turfgrass by applying a three-way mix of 2, 4-D, MCPP and Dicamba. This mix is sold in many garden centers under a variety of trade names. There are also other mixes on the market but generally are not as effective. For the best results, apply the mix on any relatively warm day in October or November.

Renovate – Summer's stresses often take a toll on your lawn. The best time to reseed your lawn is from late August through October. Because the goal is to get the seed in close contact with the soil, it is recommended that you first remove surface debris and mechanically groove the soil. This is easier done by traversing the lawn with a dethatching machine that can be rented at many rental centers. Seed a turf-type tall fescue at a rate of 5 to 6 pounds per 1,000 square feet. To avoid uneven application, spread half the seed horizontally across the lawn and the other half vertically. The best and quickest results are obtained if the seeded areas can be kept moist until the seeds germinate.

Remember to continue mowing your lawn as long as the grass is growing. For our area, we usually need to mow until late November. You might want to lower the height in the fall to 1.5 to 2 inches. This tends to keep the grass greener longer in the winter and will help the lawn to green up earlier the next spring. It might even help increase turf density. Never let the grass be taller than four inches going into the winter.

USDA issuing CRP, Direct and ACRE payments

Agriculture Secretary Tom Vilsack announced that USDA has begun distributing Conservation Reserve Program (CRP) annual rental payments to participants across the country. USDA also will distribute 2013 direct payments and 2012 Average Crop Revenue Election (ACRE) program payments beginning Oct. 24. Payments originally were scheduled to be issued earlier in the month, but were delayed by several weeks due to the lapse in Federal funding.

“Farmers, ranchers and rural landowners across the country count on USDA programs and the payment delays due to the shutdown were an unnecessary burden,” Vilsack said. “USDA has prioritized making these scheduled payments without any further delay and Farm Service Agency staff have worked hard to get this assistance out the door as quickly as possible.”

Producers will receive payments on almost 700,000 CRP contracts on 390,000 farms covering 26.8 million acres. In exchange for a yearly rental payment provided by USDA on contracts ranging from 10 to 15 years, farmers and ranchers enrolled in CRP agree to remove environmentally sensitive land from agricultural production and plant grasses or trees that will improve water quality and improve waterfowl and wildlife habitat. CRP reduced runoff and leaching of nitrogen and phosphorus into waterways by an estimated 605 million pounds and 121 million pounds, respectively, in 2012, and soil erosion reductions totaling 308 million tons in 2012.

Direct payments for 2013 for the DCP and ACRE programs are being made to the more than 1.7 million farms enrolled in the Farm Service Agency’s programs. Producers with base acres of certain commodities are eligible for DCP payments. ACRE payments for 2012-crop barley, corn, grain sorghum, lentils, oats, peanuts, dry peas, soybeans, and wheat are scheduled to be released beginning Oct. 24 and contingent upon national average market prices and yields in each state. ACRE payments for upland cotton are scheduled to be made in early November, after the 2012/13 average market year price is published in the Agricultural Prices publication scheduled to be released on October 31. ACRE payments are scheduled to be made for large chickpeas, small chickpeas, canola, crambe, flaxseed, mustard seed, rapeseed, safflower, sesame, and sunflowers are scheduled to be made in early December, after the 2012/13 average market year price is published in the Agricultural Prices publication scheduled to be released on January 31, 2014.

The 2008 Farm Bill, extended by the American Tax Payer Relief Act of 2012, provides authority to enroll land in DCP, ACRE and CRP through Sept. 30, 2013, however, no legislation has been enacted to reauthorize or extend this authority. Effective Oct. 1, 2013, FSA does not have legislative authority to approve or process applications for these programs.

For more information on CRP, DCP and ACRE, producers should contact their local FSA office or visit FSA's website at the FSA Homepage.

FSA increases Guaranteed Loan limit

John W. McCauley, State Executive Director for Kentucky’s Farm Service Agency (FSA), announced that the loan limit for the Guaranteed Loan Program increased to $1,355,000 on Oct. 1. The limit is adjusted annually based on the “Prices Paid to Farmers Index”, compiled by the National Agricultural Statistics Service (NASS).

“Raising the guaranteed loan limit will allow FSA to better meet the financial needs of producers across the Commonwealth,” said McCauley.

FSA guaranteed loans allow lenders to provide agricultural credit to farmers who do not meet the lender's normal underwriting criteria. Farmers and ranchers apply for a guaranteed loan through a commercial lender, and the lender arranges for the guarantee. FSA can guarantee up to 95 percent of the loss of principal and interest on a loan. Guaranteed loans can be used for both farm ownership and operating purposes.

Producers should contact their local FSA Service Center with questions about farm loans or by visiting www.fsa.usda.gov.

Preschool parents participate in class project

Home and school are a young child's two most important worlds. If home and school are connected in positive and respectful ways, children feel secure.

Some of the ways families are involved in their children's early childhood education in Lincoln County are doing projects at home. Another, is sharing aspects of their cultural heritage, lending tools and art and talking with the children about how they were made or used. The possibilities for families to be involved are endless: playing an instrument, keeping a garden, and teaching about a hobby are just some of the ways children learn from members of their community.

Families also learn from contributing, but the positive message their involvement conveys to children is what matters the most.

As a culminating activity to their unit, "All About Me", Ms. Sharmon and Ms. Crystal invited Waynesburg preschool families to be creative. Families joined their children at school to create and decorate child-size cut outs.

FINANCIAL TIP: Financial aid has a language of its own

As high school seniors and their parents begin the college financial aid process, they may find themselves faced with unfamiliar terms. This short glossary from the Kentucky Higher Education Assistance Authority (KHEAA) may help.

• Conversion scholarship/loan. This type of financial aid requires recipients to provide certain services or pay back the funds with interest.

• Expected family contribution (EFC). This is the amount the student and family are expected to pay toward yearly college costs.

• FAFSA. The Free Application for Federal Student Aid is the form all students must complete when applying for federal and state student aid. The best way to file is online.

• Financial need. This term refers to the difference between the student's EFC and the total cost of attending a college.

• Grant. Grants are usually based on financial need and generally do not have to be repaid.

• Institutional aid. This term refers to the scholarships, grants and other financial aid programs provided by the college.

• Need analysis. The answers provided on the FAFSA are analyzed to determine a student's EFC and financial need.

• Student Aid Report (SAR). This report is based on the information provided on the FAFSA and lets students know their EFC and eligibility for aid.

• Waiver. A waiver lets a student attend college without having to pay tuition and certain fees.

KHEAA is the state agency that administers Kentucky's student aid programs, including the Kentucky Educational Excellence Scholarship (KEES). To find links to other useful education websites, go to www.gotocollege.ky.gov. For more infor-
